ALYSSA EDWARDS

“I’ve been doing drag since I was about 9 years old, twirling in my granny’s nightgown with a towel wrapped around my head, pretending to be Annie Lennox or something!”

That’s how Dallas performer Alyssa Edwards recalls her humble beginnings as a drag diva. But she began performing in drag professionally about 14 years ago, and her career has continued to soar.

Alyssa counts winning Miss Gay Texas in 2004 and Miss Gay USofA in 2006 among her greatest achievements, calling the experience of winning the pageants “magical, because I had always sat at home and watched pageants on TV and wished I could do something like that some day.” But it was her turn as a contestant on RuPaul’s Drag Race that launched her career on a national and even international stage. “I was a fan of the show, which offers entertainers such a huge platform to share their art, so when I had the chance I went for it — high heels first,” Alyssa said. “I submitted my audition, being completely true to who and what I am, and Ru recognized my charisma, uniqueness, nerve and talent.”

Alyssa competed in Season 5 of the Logo TV reality show. She was eliminated in Week 9, placing 6th overall for the season. But her participation in Drag Race just set the stage for more opportunities, including the chance to film a reality show about her own business, Beyond Belief Dance, a dance studio in Mesquite just east of Dallas, where her staff and students know Alyssa Edwards as dancer and businessman Justin Johnson.

The dance studio, Alyssa said, had been “a dream for as long as I can remember. I always wanted to be the Mr. Spielberg of dance. ... I grew up in Mesquite in a large family, with seven siblings. So I learned at a very early age how to fight for the spotlight. But at the same time, I was a shy kid in school, and a little socially awkward, believe it or not!

“Being in dance class gave me the happiest moments of my social life, and dancing was the perfect opportunity to express myself,” she continued. So at the age of 18 she began working as a student assistant and choreographer with a dance studio.

“With a great system and great passion, that dream became a reality,” Alyssa said of Beyond Belief.

“Teaching the youth of today and the future of tomorrow is the greatest gift I’ve ever received. We have accomplished fab things at Beyond Belief; in 2007, we were in the top 25 on America’s Got Talent.”

Saying that she had always been careful to keep Alyssa and Justin and their very different lives separate, she acknowledged that she had been a bit worried how her dance students and their parents — and even her own staff — might react to seeing Alyssa on Drag Race. She was, Alyssa said, pleasantly surprised; she’s had no backlash at all.

She added that filming has begun on the Logo series featuring Justin and Beyond Belief, and she hoped, as 2015 came to an end, to be able to share more news soon.

“I cannot wait for Beyond Belief to invade your televisions at home!” Alyssa declared. “It’s gonna be a hoot! Just imagine Dance Moms, Drag Race and Honey Boo-Boo all rolled into one series. Stay tuned for it.”

As for rumors that Alyssa might be making a small-screen comeback, via an “all-star” season of Drag Race, she giggled and waved the question away. “If I told you all my secrets now, I wouldn’t have any secrets to tell” on her weekly YouTube series, Alyssa’s Secret, produced by World of Wonder.

With a month left to go in 2015, Alyssa was constantly on the run, fitting an Out North Texas photo shoot and interview in between a trip to Los Angeles for an audition and a trip to Brazil to perform.

She had recently finished filming RuPaul’s upcoming Christmas special for Logo, and was a feature performer for the annual MAC Cosmetics’ Art of Lip launch. She was also touring with Miley Cyrus as an opening act and backup dancer on Miley’s Dead Petz tour.

“After the Drag Race [Season 5] reunion show where we had the Haus of Edwards performance, we connected, and [Miley] had me and some other Drag Race alumni featured in her epic VMA finale number,” Alyssa said, explaining how she got the spot on tour with the singer.

Alyssa admitted that keeping up such a hectic schedule can be trying. “Yes, it’s difficult at times to balance everything. But it’s a good thing, too. I have a phenomenal and supportive faculty to assist with [Beyond Belief studio], and did I mention I am in a relationship? Yeah, I’m kind of superman-ish!

“Seriously, I spend half my week on a plane, and the other half at Beyond Belief,” Alyssa added. “But one thing I’ve learned, you can sleep when you’re dead. So while you’re still breathing, be productive and seize the moment. That’s what I am doing.”

MICHAEL S.
RAWLINGS

Greetings!

As mayor of the city of Dallas, it is my honor to congratulate OUT North Texas on its publication of the 2016 Official LGBT Visitors Guide. The OUT North Texas family has been a reliable and useful resource to the lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender community (LGBT) and showcases the vibrancy of the city of Dallas.

I believe that our city is stronger today because of its rich cultural diversity, and OUT North Texas is a reminder of that diversity. Dallas would not be the city that it is today without the many benefits of our diverse population.

Entrepreneurs, small businesses and Fortune 500 firms are discovering the tremendous value of having a diverse workforce and community. That is what brings companies to Dallas and what encourages them to stay. The many retailers, companies, professionals and service providers listed in this publication play important roles in our region's economy. I would encourage readers to support these businesses and explore what they have to offer to our city.

OUT North Texas has also been a reliable and useful resource for travelers, providing the latest information on the city's best entertainment, shopping and dining. The Voice Publishing Company's long commitment to our community is commendable, and I wish OUT North Texas a successful edition.

Again, thank you to OUT North Texas for consistently making a positive impact in our community.

Best Regards,

Michael S. Rawlings
Mayor

BETSY
PRICE

It is my pleasure to welcome you to Fort Worth, Texas. We hope that you will savor your stay and time spent here enjoying the unique mix of cultural activities found only in the city "Where the West Begins."

As mayor, it is with great pride that I would like to tell you about our city, a city of cowboys, culture and community. In one visit you can enjoy an enormous range of experiences – from art to animals, from fashion to family fun. We offer lessons in western history with a tour of the Historic Stockyards, auto racing at the Texas Motor Speedway or a relaxing night of shopping and dining in downtown's historic Sundance Square. The choice is yours!

While you are in Fort Worth, we hope you get a chance to visit:

Our downtown area ... a nationally noted model of successful urban renaissance filled with restaurants, museums, art galleries, theaters and an abundance of retail shopping. The Sundance Square area of downtown is a "must-see" for everyone visiting the city.

The Cultural District ... recognized as the "museum capital of the Southwest," is home to world-class museums. We are proud to be home to the Texas Cowgirl Hall of Fame, and we have an outstanding equestrian center, one of the country's top-ranked zoos, and a multitude of beautiful parks and gardens.

Northside's historic Stockyards area ... is a delightful journey into the city's western heritage. You are sure to enjoy the area's many shops and restaurants while finding a real-life cowboy or two outfitted with horses and even the cattle drive of the Fort Worth Herd of longhorns!

One of our most valuable assets is our people. Visitors often cite the "Fort Worth Friendly" spirit of our citizens and businesses as the top reason they plan a return visit.

We are pleased you chose Fort Worth and hope you enjoy your time in Cowtown.

Sincerely,

Betsy Price
Mayor

a letter from the PUBLISHER

Business is all about relationships, and the LGBT community is proud to do business with people they know and trust. At OUT North Texas, we are proud of the relationships we have developed with our readers, advertisers, the Dallas Convention & Visitors Bureau and the North Texas GLBT Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking of relationships, marriage equality is now the law of the land and we are excited to see more and more companies reaching out to LGBT consumers. National advertising is up more than 18 percent, and the LGBT market continues to expand.

Our partnership with the Dallas CVB positions OUT North Texas as the official visitors guide for the Metroplex's LGBT community. We hope that you use this magazine to explore Dallas and Fort Worth with our in-depth visitors guide and patronize each of the businesses in our comprehensive directory. These advertisers support our community and help us give a voice to LGBT issues; let them know you saw their ad in OUT.

Finally, our most valued relationship is with you, our readers. Thank you for continuing to support us and our advertisers.

Thank you for reading!

AFRICAN AMERICAN MUSEUM AT FAIR PARK

ALL LOVE IS BIG LOVE

Dallas has never been afraid to make big statements. And the biggest one we can think of is the one we've proudly made for years — that all love is BIG. So you can rest assured that in this city, no matter who you love, Dallas is where you'll always belong.

Celebrate what you love starting at VisitDallas.com/LGBT.

BIG
HAPPEN
HERE

DALLAS CVB PRESIDENT AND CEO

Welcome to Dallas! Big Things Happen Here and, with more than $20 billion in recent development, there is much to discover.

You'll find a steady supply of new restaurants, retail, cultural and entertainment venues, hotels and green spaces that are high on international and domestic visitor radars. In fact, TripAdvisor recently ranked Dallas as No.4 in its list of top-10 U.S. cities of interest to international travelers with additional top-10 accolades for accommodations, restaurants and attractions.

In other good news, Dallas CityPass launched mid-2015, enabling visitors to skip most main-entrance ticket lines and saving visitors 41 percent of combined admission to Perot Museum of Nature and Science, Reunion Tower GeO-Deck, the Dallas Zoo or Sixth Floor Museum at Dealey Plaza, and the George W. Bush Presidential Library and Museum or the Dallas Arboretum and Botanical Garden. The Dallas Sports Commission announced the Elite Rodeo Association's World Championship at American Airlines Center, Nov. 9-13, 2016 will bring top stars in rodeo including 21-time world champion Trevor Brazile. And our Big list continues ...

Don't miss:

- Klyde Warren Park uniting Downtown and Uptown at the Dallas Arts District. Year-round food trucks, dog park, yoga, concerts and more have made this a favorite year-round destination.
- Perot Museum of Nature and Science in Victory Park featuring state-of-the-art and interactive exhibits that appeal to all ages. Three million visitors in its first three years – impressive!
- George W. Bush Presidential Center at Southern Methodist University with massive steel from the World Trade Center, a full-sized Oval Office, Texas Rose Garden, an interactive policy decision theater and much more.
- GeO-Deck at Reunion Tower delivering a 360-degree Dallas experience.
- Rory Meyers Children's Adventure Garden at the Dallas Arboretum featuring family-friendly, educational and experiential exhibits.

Dallas is a vibrant, progressive destination that celebrates its diversity. Stay updated on what's Big in Dallas on VisitDallas.com. We look forward to sharing our great city with you!

Sincerely,

OUT LIFE

The neighborhood known as “Oak Lawn” has historically been the heart of Dallas’ vibrant and active LGBT community. The “gayborhood” has grown over the years, spreading out from the Cedar Springs Strip at its center to encompass parts of Uptown and the Design District and even into the edges of the neighboring Park Cities.

The gayborhood is defined by four major streets: Inwood Road on the northwest, Lemmon Avenue on the northeast, Oak Lawn Avenue on the southeast and Maple Avenue on the southwest. The commercial establishments along all of these streets are, at least, very-gay aware and gay-friendly, if not gay-owned and gay-operated.

From piano bars and dance clubs to restaurants, galleries, shops and more, Oak Lawn is the perfect place to see or be seen in Dallas.

fort worth's OUT LIFE

While Fort Worth does not have a geographically-defined gayborhood such as Oak Lawn in Dallas, the city does have a growing and increasingly active LGBT community. There are several LGBT bars and other businesses clustered just south of downtown in the Jennings Street area, with others grouped on the east side of downtown near the historic Meadowbrook and Handley neighborhoods. Meadowbrook and Handley, with their affordable historic home and friendly neighbors, also have a large LGBT population.

The city's thriving downtown area, with its newly-renovated Sundance Square is an easily walkable entertainment district, as is the up-and-coming West 7th Street area. Situated on the northern tip of Trinity Park and just across the Trinity River from downtown, West 7th bridges the gap Fort Worth's downtown and its cultural district, home to numerous world-class museums, with a collection of popular shops, bars, restaurants and more, including the renovated Montgomery Plaza, which houses shops and high-end apartments.

out in the GAYBORHOODS

Lots of big cities have a gayborhood, offering LGBT residents and visitors a place where they know they can go to eat, drink, shop and play in a fun and gay-positive environment. There's The Castro in San Francisco and Chelsea in New York; South Beach in Miami and Montrose in Houston.

Here in Dallas, we have TWO gayborhoods, and one of the oldest — The Strip on Cedar Springs/Oak Lawn — was voted Best Gayborhood in the U.S. in Out Traveler's 2014 survey. And the Oak Lawn gayborhood continues to grow, spreading south to the Uptown area and west into the Dallas Design District, while Bishop Arts District/Oak Cliff becomes ever more vibrant and inclusive.

THE STRIP ON CEDAR SPRINGS / OAK LAWN

"The Crossroads" is one nickname for the intersection of Cedar Springs Road and Throckmorton Street, there at the heart of Dallas' oldest and largest gayborhood. It's also called "Oak Lawn," "Cedar Springs" and "The Strip." But regardless what you call it, everyone knows this is the place to go if you're looking for the LGBT community.

Oak Lawn was once a dodgy neighborhood sandwiched between Downtown Dallas and Park Cities. But the in 1970s, the LGBT community began moving in, gentrifying the neighborhood and creating a gay mecca. These days, thanks to its proximity to Highland Park, University Park and Uptown, Oak Lawn Avenue has become prime real estate and one of the most desirable addresses in town. You can find all the trendiest places to see and be seen, to shop and to live, including everything from markets such as EatZi's to fancy restaurants like Al Biernat's and comfortable hangouts like Lucky's. The mixed-use development ilume opened in 2009 and quickly became a social lightning rod, with residential space, Dish restaurant and the ilume Gallerie, and the sister development, ilume Park, a dog-friendly residence.

Oak Lawn runs perpendicular to three other busy drags: Lemmon Avenue, Cedar Springs Road and Maple Avenue, all of which claim their share of nightclubs and gay-owned and -managed businesses. Caven Enterprises owns four clubs along the Strip (JR.'s Bar & Grill, Sue Ellen's, TMC: The Mining Company and Station 4), and Kroger's grocery store is as much a pick-up joint and meeting place as a market. The Crossroads is the point from which all things queer emanate in Dallas, from the Alan Ross Texas Freedom Parade winding its route through the streets in September to the biggest Halloween street party in the city. And all year long, it's where gay Dallas calls home.

BISHOP ARTS DISTRICT / OAK CLIFF

Once one of the city's toniest residential areas, Oak Cliff — southwest of Downtown Dallas — had come to be seen as an area of high crime and poverty. But once again, the LGBT community stepped in and led the way in restoring Oak Cliff to its former glory, and the area has, over recent years, seen a resurgence in appeal — and an increase in rents. And still it remains one of the most affordable — and the most interesting — areas of town.

The growth has been largely concentrated around the Bishop Arts District, an up-and-coming neighborhood surrounded by Davis and Bishop avenues. Chief among the draws for this historically funky, artsy center are the restaurants and boutiques, many gay-owned. From Hattie's to Veracruz restaurant, there's also the acclaimed Lucia restaurant, the Oak Cliff branch of the gay-popular hamburger joint Hunky's and Tillman's Roadhouse, designed by famed gay style guru Todd Fiscus. The list is nearly endless, as new shops create more and more reasons for the gay community of Dallas to head south of the Trinity and call this place home.

dfw's don't miss
DESTINATIONS

Every city has at least one “Don’t Miss” destination — that place that embodies the spirit of the city and is a must-see, for residents and visitors alike. The Dallas-Fort Worth Metroplex has dozens of them. Here are just a few.

Klyde Warren Park

FAIR PARK & THE STATE FAIR OF TEXAS

Dallas’ Fair Park, located just southeast of Downtown, is home to the annual Texas State Fair, which runs from late September into October each year and is the largest state fair in the country. Fair Park, open year round, is linked by location to the earliest state fair grounds, dating back to 1886. But most of the existing buildings were constructed in the Art Deco style specifically for the 1936 Exposition, which celebrated the 100th anniversary of the Texas Republic. Today, Fair Park is the only intact and unaltered pre-1950s world fair site remaining in the U.S. The 227-acre park, designated as a National Historic Landmark in 1986, hosts more than 7 million visitors each year for the fair, various sporting events such as the Cotton Bowl Classic football game, and cultural and entertainment events.

FORT WORTH STOCKYARDS

Fort Worth has long been known as the place “Where the West begins.” Nowhere is that more obvious than in the Fort Worth Stockyards, the head of the legendary Chisholm Trail and later, the city’s meatpacking district and livestock exchange. Today, the past and present collide in the Stockyards. Twice-daily cattle drives featuring mounted cowhands herding Texas longhorns through the streets, the Stockyards Museum, the Texas Cowboy Hall of Fame and the Grapevine Vintage Railroad keep history alive. The world-famous honky-tonk Billy Bob’s Texas and the Stockyards Championship Rodeo maintain the cowboy flavor, and the Stockyards Station offers up plenty of shopping and top-notch restaurants.

DALLAS ARTS DISTRICT

Dallas has had a thriving fine arts community for more than a century. The Arts District, strung out along Flora Street on the edge of Downtown, features the world-reknoned Winspear Opera House, the Wylie Theatre and the Morton H. Meyerson Symphony Center. Add in the museums — The Nasher Sculpture Center, the Dallas Museum of Art and the Trammell and Margaret Crow Collection of Asian Art, and Dallas has the largest contiguous urban arts district in the country. Across Woodall Rogers Freeway, the Perot Museum of Nature and Science adds another dimension to the cultural offerings.

Along Flora Street in Dallas. And over Woodall Rogers, Klyde Warren Park offers a whole new angle on the idea of culture.

FORT WORTH CULTURAL DISTRICT

Fort Worth's about a lot more than just longhorns and cowboy. There's plenty of culture in Cowtown, too. The Kimball Art Museum features a collection ranging from antiquity to contemporary. The Modern Art Museum building is almost as dazzling as the exhibitions it houses, and the Amon Carter Museum is home to a substantial photographic collection. Nearby is the Fort Worth Museum of Science and History, and the city's Wild West heritage is represented by the National Cowgirl Museum.

SIXTH FLOOR MUSEUM

For decades, Dallas battled against being known as the city where President John F. Kennedy was assassinated. Then civic leaders decided that instead of backing away from history, they should explore it. Thus was born the Sixth Floor Museum. Situated in the old School Book Depository — the building from which Lee Harvey Oswald shot the president — the Sixth Floor Museum chronicles the assassination and the legacy of John F. Kennedy and presents contemporary culture within the context of presidential history.

JFK TRIBUTE IN FORT WORTH

When you mention JFK and Texas, everyone immediately thinks of Dealey Plaza and the School Book Depository in Dallas. But fewer people realize that before he went to Dallas that fateful November day, President Kennedy spent the previous night at the Hotel Texas in downtown Fort Worth, and on the morning of Nov. 22, met with a crowd of well-wishers outside the hotel before speaking at the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce breakfast. Today, the city of Fort Worth honors Kennedy and his legacy with the JFK Tribute, featuring sculpture of President Kennedy, images that capture moments in time and inscriptions describing his stay in Fort Worth.

SIX FLAGS OVER TEXAS/HURRICANE HARBOR

Located near the geographic heart of the DFW Metroplex, Six Flags Over Texas has been providing family fun for all kinds of families for more than 50 years. The 212-acre park, the first of the Six Flag Theme Parks, offers rides for all ages — including the tallest and fastest roller coaster in Texas in The Titan, and the Texas Giant wooden roller coaster, shopping, Broadway-style musical revues and concerts by big-name entertainers. Although most people think of Six Flags as just a summertime destination, the park is also open the month of October for Frightfest, and from the end of November through December for Holiday in the Park. Just across the interstate sits Six Flags' sister park, Six Flags Hurricane Harbor water park. With 50 acres of rides and slides and a 1-million-gallon wave pool, Hurricane Harbor is the largest water park in North Texas.

DALLAS WORLD AQUARIUM

Situated in an old warehouse in Dallas' West End, Dallas World Aquarium is a for-profit aquarium and zoo intended to aid conservation and education by housing many animals that are threatened or endangered as part of a cooperative breeding program with other zoos around the world. The upper level of the aquarium is an artificial reproduction of the Orinoco Rainforest, aviary with birds such as scarlet ibis and toucans flying freely and the only public display of three-toed sloths in the U.S., plus electric eels, caecilians, tamarins, poison dart frogs, Orinoco crocodiles, and vampire bats. The lower level houses aquaria featuring fish, sea anemones, coral, jellyfish, and other sea animals from around the world.

CONTINENTAL AVENUE BRIDGE & WEST DALLAS GATEWAY

Up until the opening of the Margaret Hunt Hill Bridge, designed by Santiago Calatrava, the Continental Avenue Bridge was the link between most of Dallas and the Dallas west of the Trinity River. Once the new Calatrava bridge was built, the Continental Avenue Bridge was closed and redesigned into a concrete park spanning the river, thanks to a private partnership between the city of Dallas and The Trinity Trust. The bridge offers active and passive play spaces, programmed activities and an up-close view of the river, Trinity Floodway and the Margaret Hunt Hill Bridge.

WHITE ROCK LAKE PARK

White Rock Lake Park is an Audubon Society-designated bird watching area and wetlands site with numerous scenic picnic areas, two boat ramps, fishing piers where anglers can catch catfish, sunfish and bass, and event facilities —Winfrey Point and Big Thicket — available for rent. The park is also home to numerous special events including the March of Dimes Walk for American, White Rock Marathon and White Rock Lake Trash Bash.

GREAT TRINITY FOREST

Great Trinity Forest, with possibly the largest urban bottomland hardwood forest in America, is part of the Trinity River Corridor Project's environmental and recreational charter. The forest extends from the Santa Fe Trestle Trail near Corinth Street and Riverfront Boulevard, within view of downtown Dallas, to just past I-20, an 11-mile stretch of land that basically follows the Trinity River. Owned almost exclusively by the city of Dallas, the Great Trinity Forest is home to groves of urban bottomland hardwoods, and at 6,000 acres the Trinity Forest far overshadows New York's 840-acre Central Park. Future plans include equestrian facilities and whitewater, nature trails and multipurpose trails for hiking, boating and more.

RIVER LEGACY PARK

River Legacy Park, running along the Trinity River on the north side of Arlington, began in 1988 as a partnership between the city of Arlington and River Legacy Foundation to preserve and enhance the parkland along the Trinity River as an educational, recreational and natural resource. The park opened in 1990 with just 376 acres but now encompasses 1,300 acres of paved and unpaved trails for hiking and biking, a nature center with interactive exhibits, aquariums, terrariums, environmental educational programs and a gift shop.

FOSSIL RIM WILDLIFE CENTER

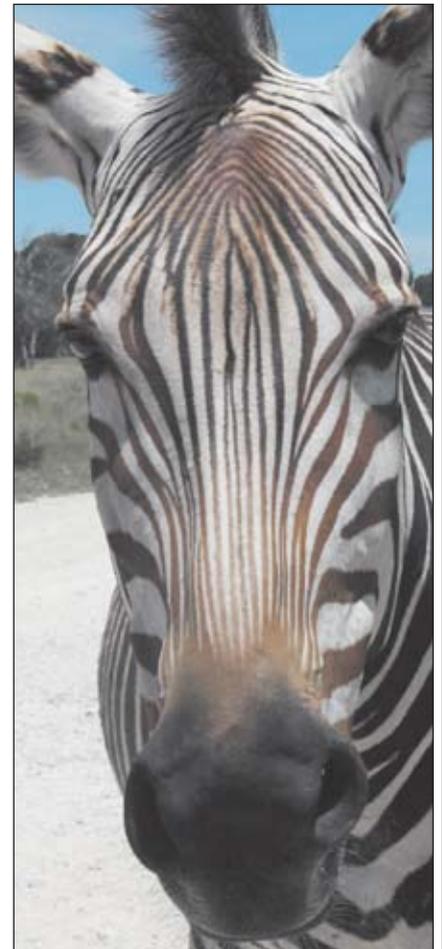

Fossil Rim Wildlife Center is an 1,800-acre conservation, research and education center located southwest of DFW near the small town of Glen Rose. The park gives visitors an up-close look at a number of endangered species and up to 1,000 exotic animals through self-guided tours and tours guided by docents. The center also offers lodging for guests who want to make the most of their visit.

DINOSAUR VALLEY STATE PARK

The 1,587-acre Dinosaur Valley State Park opened in 1972 with one main mission: to preserve valuable dinosaur track sites located along the Paluxy River and thus allow people to learn from and enjoy them. The park, with a variety of campsites available, features at 70-foot model of an Apatosaurus and a 45-foot model of a tyrannosaurus rex, both of which were displayed at the 1964-65 New York World's Fair. The Atlantic Richfield Company donated them to the park in 1970. Tracks from the park are on display at the American Museum of Natural History in New York and at the Texas Memorial Museum in Austin. The park offers plenty of room for camping, picnicking, hiking, mountain biking, swimming, fishing, horseback riding and more. There is also an interpretive center open to the public.

Igbt friendly ACCOMMODATIONS

In recent years, the city of Dallas has grown to understand even more the value of LGBT tourism, and the city's hospitality industry is sophisticated and welcoming. And while most major hotel chains — as well as many smaller chains and boutique hotels and B&Bs — are familiar with and helpful to their LGBT clientele, there are some accommodations that stand out as being especially welcoming to LGBT travelers.

HILTON ANATOLE

This luxurious hotel is set on 45 acres of land near the heart of Dallas, with rooms and suites offering custom-designed beds, flat-screen TVs and WiFi (for a fee). Executive rooms provide access to the Executive Lounge's free breakfast and evening appetizers. The Hilton Anatole also offers multiple dining options, including an upscale steakhouse and a cocktail bar, plus an outdoor pool, jogging trails, tennis courts, a spa, fitness center (for a fee), a business center and more than 349,000 square feet of meeting space. The hotel also has a 1,000-piece fine art collection.

WARWICK MELROSE DALLAS

Sitting smack in the middle of the Dallas gayborhood — at the corner of Oak Lawn Avenue and Cedar Springs Road — the 1924 red brick Melrose is also conveniently close to others of the city's must-see attractions. The elegant rooms feature flat-screen TVs, coffeemakers and WiFi (for a surcharge), while upgraded suites offer separate living and dining rooms with crystal chandeliers. The Presidential Suite includes a full-size kitchen. The hotel also includes a restaurant serving classic American dishes that is open for breakfast, lunch and dinner, plus a classy piano bar offering live entertainment. Other amenities include an exercise room and free transportation for local trips. There are also five meeting rooms and a ballroom. As befits its place as the grande dame of the gayborhood, the Melrose over the years has embraced the LGBT community, hosting many community events.

W DALLAS — VICTORY

Part of the Starwood Hotels brand, the W in Victory Park features its dramatic Ghostbar (and the Ghostdeck with see-through floor). The hotel exudes a funkiness common to the chain, with amenities like Cook Hall restaurant, which serves gastropub cuisine. Shortly after the U.S. Supreme Court's landmark marriage equality ruling in June 2015, the W Dallas hosted the wedding of a gay couple that featured guest DJ Lady Bunny, in from New York, a surprise performance by Jennifer Husdon — and the Starwood Hotels brand paid for the whole shindig as part of its efforts to support marriage equality.

HOTEL ZAZA

Located in the heart of Uptown, the Zaza is a perpetually busy boutique hotel with a large gay following. The saucily-decorated rooms are tucked away on a side street within a few paces of the hubbub of Uptown nightlife, but its own Dragonfly restaurant (and popular Urban Oasis pool bar) give you plenty of things to do without leaving the grounds. On select weekends, the Sunday School brunch is a dance party/meal that attracts a mixed gay-straight crowd.

best of SHOPPING

If a visit to Dallas is in your future, be sure to bring your wallet and be ready to shop, because Dallas is the shopping capital of the Lone Star State. Here are a few suggestions on where to start. By J. Denton Bricker

Best Mall

NorthPark Center

8687 N. Central Expressway
Dallas, 75225
214-363-7441

NorthParkCenter.com

The Galleria is nice and all if you want to go ice skating. But when it comes to getting the biggest bang for your buck, the mall to go in Dallas is NorthPark Center, which has some of the top name brands in both the mainstream and high-end fashion industries and seems to add more every year — like Gucci, Louis Vuitton, Versace, Michael Kors, Ted Baker, Armani Exchange and more. NorthPark also offers concierge services, visiting art exhibits in the hallways and yoga classes in the beautiful courtyard. And that's not even mentioning all full-service restaurants there.

Best Place to Find a Deal

The Shops at Park Lane

8080 Park Lane
Dallas, 75231

The Shops at Park Lane are located conveniently across Central Expressway from NorthPark Center. Many of the big stores in NorthPark offer less expensive shopping options here, like Nordstrom Rack, Saks Fifth Avenue Off 5th, Bloomingdale's, HomeGoods, J. Crew Mercantile, St. Bernard Outlet, Old Navy, Forever 21 and others. There is also an assortment of restaurants and the recently-opened a flagship Starbucks in Dallas, with one of the greenest storefronts in the country, so you can sip on a coffee in the garden and get your caffeine fix while scoping out your shopping strategy.

Uptown

Best Vintage Clothing and Finds

Dolly Python

Best Gift Shop

WE ARE 1976

313 N. Bishop Ave.
Dallas, 75208
WeAre1976.com
214-821-1976

WE ARE 1976 was originally located on Henderson Avenue but has moved to the bustling Bishop Arts District in Oak Cliff. It offers gifts that are both innovative and cunning. It specializes in prints but there are plenty of other cool items sure to catch your fancy, especially if you're shopping for that person that already has everything.

Best T-Shirt Shop

Bullzerk

1909 Greenville Ave.
Dallas, 75206
972-677-7705

Bullzerk.MyShopify.com
Bullzerk on lower Greenville Avenue makes cleverly cheeky t-shirts designs specific to funny pop culture references, Texas, and even different neighborhoods around Dallas. Anyone wearing a Bullzerk shirt will surely garner positive comments, chuckles and maybe even a smirk from passersby. Isn't that what fashion is all about? They also offer art and home decor in the same humorous vein.

SPRING

TEXAS GAY RODEO ASSOCIATION

The Texas Gay Rodeo Association, going into its 33 year and with several local chapters around the state, hosts several events every year, sometimes in conjunction with the International Gay Rodeo Association. One of its largest events each year is the Texas Tradition Rodeo, held at Fair Park Coliseum in Dallas in 2015. One of TGRA's primary missions is to raise funds for community organizations, with TGRA royalty contestants holding events throughout the year. TGRA rodeos are also known for their "camp" events, including goat dressing and the Wild Drag Race.

TEXAS BEAR ROUND UP

Contrary to what mainstream culture might have people think, gay men come in all shapes and sizes — including the big, hairy kind, as bears well know. Every March, the Dallas Bears host one of the largest such events nationwide, the Texas Bear Round Up. Upwards of 800 men come to town for social events (pool and toga parties), entertainment (LGBT comedians and musicians), plus field trips and fellowship. The 2016 TBRU will be March 10-13.

EVENING OF HOPE

May. AIDS Outreach Center in Fort Worth holds its signature gala with national/local celebrities, a keynote speaker and entertainment. The elegant evening includes a sit-down dinner, silent auction and VIP reception. This year's event is May 21. AOC.org

VOICE OF PRIDE

Summer. Every year, the Dallas Tavern Guild sponsors the Voice of Pride competition. Various competitions take place at clubs throughout the summer, culminating in a final round in August. The top vote-getters then perform at the Lee Park Festival following the Alan Ross Texas Freedom Parade during Dallas Pride in September DallasTavernGuild.org

AUTUMN

ALAN ROSS TEXAS FREEDOM PARADE

Third Sunday in September. To avoid the summer heat, Dallas' gay Pride celebration comes in September rather June as in many cities. The parade, which typically runs east along Cedar Springs Road on the third Sunday of the month, ending with a festival in Reverchon Park. Teen Pride events are held during parade weekend. 2016 will be the 33rd consecutive year of the parade.

GAY DAY AT SIX FLAGS

September. Sponsored by Dallas Voice, this has become a tradition as much as Pride Parade, taking place on Saturdays before the parade. Discount tickets allow gay parkgoers to save on a day of fun among the famed attractions, including the Texas Giant, the Titan and Superman rides.

DALLAS BLACK PRIDE/DALLAS SOUTHERN PRIDE

September/October. One of the top five Black Pride events in the country this extended weekend is a series of events, including workshops, parties and picnics, sponsored by African-American LGBT organizations and open to all of the gay community. DallasSouthernPride.com

BEYOND VANILLA

September/October. Not all tastes run toward vanilla, which is where this group gets its name. An annual conference for those with a taste for a little kink in their lives, Beyond Vanilla is a fetish get-together featuring guest speakers, workshops, parties and other BDSM-centric events. BeyondVanilla.org

LIFEWALK

October. AIDS Arms is one of North Texas' most active AIDS-based charities, holding many events throughout the year, leading up to LifeWalk, its biggest fundraiser, in the fall. The 5K walk includes a run, starting in Lee Park and winding through the Uptown area before ending up back at Lee Park. Since starting in 1991, LifeWalk, scheduled for the first Sunday in October, has raised and distributed more than $6 million for area HIV/AIDS charities and individuals. LifeWalk.org

HOPE WALK

Beginning 2015, AIDS Outreach Center's family- and pet-friendly 5K walk has been moved from the spring to the fall, and rebranded as Hope Walk. It is AIDS Outreach Center's largest fundraising event each year and includes live entertainment, vendor booths and a children's area. Proceeds go to support the programs and services provided by AIDS Outreach Center. AOC.org

NATIONAL COMING OUT DAY

October. The Dallas-Fort Worth Chapter of the Human Rights Campaign's Coming Out Project started in 1993. Although the NCOD-DFW operates year-round with education and support, the actual "day" — Oct. 11 — is the focus. In 2016 NCOD will mark its 29th anniversary. Comeout.org.

THE 5 FACTOR

October. This event finds five individuals to watch who have worked on behalf of the gay community in categories, such as fashion, journalism, media and cuisine, as well as an icon award for an established hero of the community. It benefits Resource Center. RCDallas.org

BLACK TIE DINNER

November. Although the Human Rights Campaign's Black Tie Dinner takes place each year in November, plan to get your tickets by summer — it's always a sell-out. The fundraiser typically features silent and live auctions and presentations from A-list celebrities. BlackTieDinner.org

TURTLE CREEK

neighborhood BIOGRAPHIES

The North Texas Metroplex is generally divided into several major areas: Dallas, Fort Worth, the Mid Cities and outer communities. Dallas itself is often subdivided: Downtown (referring to the Central Business District), Uptown, North Dallas, Far North Dallas, South Dallas, Oak Cliff, Oak Lawn, Lake Highlands, Pleasant Grove and East Dallas (sometimes called Lakewood or the White Rock area).

Each region is further known for discreet neighborhoods with their own personalities.

Finding the one that's right for you is an idiosyncratic process: Do you prefer to be close to the action of Downtown or do you not mind a commute in exchange for a big yard? Do you like to walk from stores to restaurants, or instead park at a mall and get everything at once? Is your idea of heaven a high-rise's spectacular view of the city or a quiet stream across a greenbelt?

Whatever your preference is, there's a neighborhood for you!

DOWNTOWN

Many urban downtowns across America saw a falloff in after-work commerce in the late 20th century, and Dallas was no exception. But it has also invested substantial energy into revitalizing the Central Business District with resident-friendly developments. The Deep Ellum area, formerly a warehouse district, now provides many converted loft spaces, such as Adam Hats and Live Oak Lofts, with plenty of shopping, dining and nightlife options close by. In central Downtown, projects like the Mosaic, the Davis Building, the DP&L building and the Old Mercantile have proven popular with gay residents. New construction is underway in the Farmers Market, and restaurants like CBD Provisions continue to attract diners.

OAK LAWN

A transitional neighborhood two decades ago, the Oak Lawn-Cedar Springs area is now the hub of Dallas gay life. See Welcome to the Gayborhoods, Page 27.

PARK CITIES

Years ago, University Park and Highland Park — collectively known as Park Cities — declined an invitation to be part of the city of Dallas, instead setting up their own autonomous communities within the city limits. The results have been one of the best-established (and priciest!) neighborhoods in the nation, with multi-million-dollar homes, some complete with servants' quarters and four-car garages. Home to many of North Texas' wealthiest individuals, the Park Cities are sometimes called "the Bubble" due to their self-contained shopping, dining, schools and activities — and "the Bubble" sits right on the edge of Oak Lawn.

UPTOWN/VICTORY PARK

The physical dividing line between Downtown and Uptown may only be the width of the Woodall Rodgers canyon, but the distance between the two neighborhoods, in term of living and entertainment options, is vast. Uptown has long been a popular living locale, filled with high-rises and townhomes for an authentic urban but upscale living adventure. The addition of the W Hotel (which includes permanent residences) and the overall development of Victory Park have only expanded on Uptown's already strong appeal with LGBT city dwellers who like doormen and verticality in their lives.

M STREETS/ LOWER GREENVILLE

Although developed at roughly the same time as Park Cities, and separated from its pricier neighbors only by North Central Expressway, the M Streets area — so named because many thoroughfares here begin with the letter M (Mockingbird, Monticello, McCommas, McMillan, etc.) — offers many of the attributes of Park Cities without the prices, though that is changing as well. The area has boomed in recent years, as many of the homes built in the 1920s and '30s have been torn down to make way for McMansions (a conservation district has slowed that trend). The houses tend to be well-built cottage-style homes on somewhat small lots that exude a homey elegance. The M Streets cross Lower Greenville Avenue, a popular entertainment district with shops, clubs and restaurants within easy walking distance.

WHITE ROCK LAKE/ LAKEWOOD

What is it about a lake that draws people to nest? Lakewood in East Dallas is a well-established area with a variety of homes at all prices and interests. The remarkably diverse region includes expensive lakefront mansions, charming developments like Hollywood Heights, gorgeous old homes along Swiss Avenue and quaint pocket neighborhoods throughout. It is considered a desirable but reachable community, perfect for starter homes or long-standing couples who value space and quiet but proximity to Downtown.

FAIR PARK (SOUTH DALLAS)

With the arrival of the DART Green Line, this area is due for revival. Some restaurants have opened near Fair Park and loft conversions have begun to attract true urban pioneers.

THE CEDARS

Just south of Downtown, the Cedars is a burgeoning area of affordable homes in a transitional neighborhood. Best identified by the impressive South Side on Lamar lofts, the area has blossomed with the opening of the Dallas police headquarters on Lamar, which has lowered crime and led to dining options and clubs.

BISHOP ARTS

Old warehouses and a trolley terminal have been converted into stores, restaurants and a few offices in this near-south-side neighborhood. Construction of a new trolley from Union Station to Bishop Arts began in 2013. Homes around Bishop Arts have begun getting a facelift. See Welcome to the Gayborhoods, Page XX.

KESSLER PARK/ STEVENS PARK

Back in the day, Oak Cliff was like the Park Cities — a separate municipality that attracted wealthier residents. The area was eventually annexed by Dallas, and for awhile, the area was on a downward slide. But even when Oak Cliff as a whole was considered a transitional address, the Kessler Park/Stevens Park area was an exception, with lovely older homes, a charming public golf course and loyal residents who take care of their gorgeous, hilly neighborhood. It has long been a popular place for everyone from mayors and judges to the celebrities that call it home.

WINNETKA HEIGHTS

Once upon a time, the Sears & Roebuck catalog delivered anything — even houses, down to the very last nail. Homes in this previously neglected section of town epitomize what true miracles can still be found when a neighborhood seemingly “goes gay” overnight. Located in the very epicenter of newly fashionable Oak Cliff, cultural diversity and vibrancy are only two of the key elements one finds in this older charming neighborhood. One of the oldest conservation districts in the city, Victorian, Prairie and Craftsman-style houses have either been newly renovated or are waiting for updates.

As a rule, the farther you get from Downtown, the more likely you are to find bigger lots for less money per square foot. That often means, however, that you also find a more conservative resident base and fewer centers of gay life. Nevertheless, as LGBTs are getting married, settling down and having kids, they are seeing some genuine appeal in many of Dallas' bedroom communities, from better public schools to proximity to work — and often even equally gay-accepting neighbors.

RICHARDSON/GARLAND

These towns just north and east of Dallas are the definition of bedroom communities — small, quaint and pleasant. But most of the activities around the Metroplex are located outside their city limits.

ADDISON/FARMERS BRANCH/CARROLLTON

These small independent cities lie just north of LBJ Freeway, roughly between the Dallas North Tollway and I-35, and tend to be conservative, though convenient to the DFW Airport and the Galleria shopping center. Addison in particular has embraced aspects of the LGBT community: its gay-run WaterTower Theatre frequently produces queer-themed plays and musicals.

PLANO

One of the fastest-growing cities in the nation, Plano is often considered one of the more conservative suburbs of Dallas. But the hub of Collin County isn't quite a bastion of homophobia, with gay-friendly organizations like Gay and Lesbian Alliance of North Texas and Stonewall Democrats, as well as professional-quality performing arts at the Collin County Community College and nearby Richardson's Eisemann Center for the Performing Arts. And in 2015, the Plano City Council adopted a nondiscrimination ordinance offering protections for LGBT people, despite vehement opposition by some right-wing forces, led primarily by out-of-towners.

FRISCO

As more and more people filter into the Metroplex, this once-distant suburb has grown in popularity — and with the opening of the only IKEA in North Texas, becomes a frequent day trip destination for gay Dallasites.

FORT WORTH

Fort Worth is the 16th largest city in the United States and has been called one of America's most livable communities. Today, it is a thriving center of culture and commerce with plenty to offer: the Historic Stockyards, remarkable museums, a dazzling downtown area, the Texas Motor Speedway, spectacular annual events and more. The LGBT community in Fort Worth is active and growing, with the older neighborhoods of Meadowbrook and Handley on the eastern side of the city home to a large number of gay residents attracted to historic homes and friendly neighbors.

MID-CITIES: ARLINGTON, GRAND PRAIRIE, IRVING, HURST, EULESS, BEDFORD

The Mid-Cities is a general term used to describe those independently-incorporated areas within Dallas and Tarrant counties that lie between the cities of Dallas and Fort Worth. Each has its own identity and appeal.

Arlington

In Tarrant County, the home of Six Flags Over Texas, the Rangers' Ballpark in Arlington and the AT&T Stadium.

Arts District

Grand Prairie

In Dallas County, the closest of the Mid Cities to Downtown Dallas boasts the Verizon Theatre, which hosts many top musical acts.

Irving

In Dallas County, right on the border of DFW Airport. Home of the Las Colinas development and business park and two theater companies: Lyric Stage and ICT MainStage.

Hurst-Euless-Bedford

In Tarrant County, this triumvirate of cities are frequently referred to as H-E-B. A growing area with many businesses and new family homes. They also border Haltom City.

SOUTHERN SECTOR: DESOTO, CEDAR HILL, LANCASTER, DUNCANVILLE, WAXAHACHIE

If you've gone to Waxahachie, you've gone too far! Actually, that city is on the outer edge of the Metroplex. These smaller towns south of Dallas have grown in popularity with North Texans, though more slowly than northern suburbs like Plano, Addison and Frisco.

colleges and UNIVERSITIES

North Texas is awash in institutions of higher education, public and private, most offering opportunities and a welcoming attitude toward LGBT-identified students. Here are some of the major colleges that have gay-friendly policies or groups on campus.

SOUTHERN METHODIST UNIVERSITY

6425 Boaz Lane
Dallas, 75205
SMU.edu

SMU, a nationally-ranked private university of 11,000 students, offers small classes, seven degree-granting schools and a vitally strong alumni association. Famed for its football program, world-class business school and for being home to the George W. Bush Presidential Library, it's a school with plenty of pride thanks to LGBT organizations for students and alumni.

TARRANT COUNTY COLLEGE

1201 E. 13th Street
Fort Worth, 76102
TCCD.edu

Tarrant County College, or Tarrant County College District, is a community college serving Fort Worth and other cities in Tarrant County, providing degree programs toward an Associate of Arts, an Associate of Science, an Associate of Applied Science or Associate of Arts in Teaching. As of 2008 the institution was ranked as the sixth largest in Texas among community colleges and universities with student enrollment for credit hours of 100,000. Five physical campuses, a virtual campus and a centralized office make up the TCC District. There LGBT student groups on some campuses.

TEXAS CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY

2800 S. University Drive
Fort Worth, 76129
TCU.edu

The TCU Horned Frogs football team is so popular that all of Fort Worth joins in on the action, even dyeing the Trinity River purple when the team is on a winning streak. At only 9,500 students, this private university has a real community feel on campus. With nine degree-granting schools, including a well-respected nursing program, there is plenty of academic diversity. A gay-straight alliance also has a strong presence. Brite Divinity School at TCU is considered a liberal school with several LGBT faculty including a lesbian dean.

TEXAS WESLEYAN UNIVERSITY

1201 Wesleyan St.
Fort Worth, 76105
TXWes.edu

Texas Wesleyan University is a private, co-educational, liberal arts university founded by the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, in 1890. The 75-acre main campus is located in the Polytechnic Heights Neighborhood of Fort Worth. U.S. News & World Report ranked Texas Wesleyan in the No. 1 tier of regional universities for three consecutive years, and the school 27 areas of undergraduate study, as well as honors and pre-professional programs. The university offers graduate programs in business, education, counseling, nurse anesthesia and law. Sports include baseball, basketball, cross-country, golf, soccer and track & field, softball, tennis and volleyball. Co-ed teams include cheer and dance and internationally-known table tennis teams. The school currently has no football team because during World War II the entire team enlisted, and not enough returned from the war to start the team up again. However, the school is planning to re-instate its football program. The school has an active LGBT student group.

TEXAS WOMAN'S UNIVERSITY

304 Administration Drive
P.O. Box 425589,
Denton, 76204
TWU.edu

One of two large universities in Denton, TWU is the nation's largest university primarily for women (men are allowed, but represent a small minority of the close to 15,000 students). The public university is known for its liberal arts and healthcare programs, with a large emphasis in occupational and physical therapy programs. There is an active lesbian population on campus and a strong campus organization for LGBT students. Women's volleyball and basketball programs are popular.

UNIVERSITY OF NORTH TEXAS

1155 Union Circle #311277
Denton, 76203
UNT.edu

Denton's largest university, UNT is home to 36,000 students (including other satellite campuses around the region). One of this public university's biggest claims to fame is its College of Music and Grammy Award-winning One O'Clock Lab Band. For LGBT students, there are plenty of official welcoming organizations. UNT is also home of the LGBT archives — which has every issue of the LGBT newspaper Dallas Voice digitized, searchable and available online — plus LGBT studies programs, GLAD Dallas and a resource center called Pride Alliance.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT ARLINGTON

701 S. Nedderman Drive
Arlington, 76019
UTA.edu

UTA, at 34,000 students strong, is gaining a strong reputation as a leading research university. It offers increasing expertise in bioengineering, medical diagnostics, micro-manufacturing and defense and Homeland Security technologies. The school has no football team, but students make up for that with a variety of unique sporting opportunities, including a mud volleyball tournament, bed races and a national-championship wheelchair basketball team. A gay-straight alliance and LGBT programs aim to enhance the college experience for anyone identifying as non-heterosexual.

UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT DALLAS

800 West Campbell Road
Richardson, 75080
UTD.edu

UTD offers 130 academic programs across seven schools. Its focus has always been on science and technology curriculum. Men's soccer and basketball, as well as women's volleyball, are teams to watch. Pride at UTD, their LGBT diversity group, is active on campus.

WHAT IS THE SIGN OF A GOOD DECISION?*

It's knowing you're working with a company that understands your needs.

At MassMutual, we understand you have specific needs and concerns regarding your financial goals. And we're committed to offering products and strategies to help you get there. We're proud to have an inclusive work environment that provides employees a chance to engage, excel and grow. And we're proud to receive a rating of 100% on the Corporate Equality Index from the Human Rights Campaign.¹ It's just another reason why MassMutual is a good decision.

For more information, visit MassMutual.com or talk to a local MassMutual representative.

We'll help you get there.²
